Offsite Instructions

Widget installation instructions are available for other installation destinations. These instructions are located offsite at widgetbox, a widget distribution platform. These instructions may help you install a CO2 widget with HTML code from CO2Now.org. (CO2Now.org has a widget available on the Widgetbox platform.)

Undeveloped Platforms

Regrettably, there are some platforms that are not yet ready for a CO2Now.org widget. (Chalk it up to the limitations of volunteer time and a shoestring budget.) In time, we'll get there. Please be patient, or if you want to help nudge things along....we know that the following platforms need special set up procedures that we have yet to figure out and set up:

FaceBook

MySpace

A Vision for Even More Widget Help

This widget help centre offers the basics, thanks in part to a few people who provided CO2 installation instructions. Still, there is room for improvement.

The ultimate vision is to offer clear, step-by-step instructions for installing any type widget or gadget at almost any destination. If you see a gap in this help section, please let us know. Or, better yet, send us the instructions or information that can be shared with others. While our budget is modest, we're open to proposals from technical experts who can help us make CO2 widgets--and atmospheric CO2 levels--more visible and better understood far and wide. Simply get in touch with us at widget\_help@co2now.org.
